MONTHLY RULE REVIEW

For example, if a player sends a ball off the tee past the white stakes and out of bounds; he must play another ball from the tee box, which becomes the third shot after the penalty, and it's the same scenario for a lost ball.

The USGA has added the option of a local rule that provides time-saving relief. Instead of the player returning to the spot of the previous shot in the event of a lost ball or out of bounds, the player can take a drop in the nearest spot within two club-lengths of the edge of the fairway, no nearer the hole than where the ball crossed the OB line, with a two-stroke penalty. Consider it a gift to golfers that will speed up play and not force somebody to march back to a tee box after learning their ball is out of bounds.

The same local rule applies to a lost ball, with the player able to drop in the fairway across from where the previous ball is estimated to have come to rest. This is only a local rule, and the course's rules committee must deem its use. This rule is not intended for competitions and the standard stroke-and-distance penalties will apply. Keep in mind; it is a two-stroke penalty under the local rule.

If a player sends a tee shot out of bounds and proceeds under the local rule, they will play their fourth shot after dropping near the edge of the fairway. Many golfers casually throw down a ball and say they are playing their third from the new location, ignoring rules about stroke and distance. This next shot from the fairway would be the fourth.
